

CHURCH LANDMARK TO BE TORN DOWN

Old Emmanuel Episcopal Edifice Will Be Replaced With Modern Structure

WAS BUILT IN 1837

The Emmanuel Episcopal Church, whose gray tower and buttresses of Gothic mould bear the weather scars of nearly a century, will be demolished to give place to a modern, stone church. Old Emmanuel, standing as a landmark on Marlborough street, just above East Girard avenue, was erected in 1837, when Andrew Jackson was President of the United States.

The history of the church and Sunday school antedates the church structure. When the Church of the Holy Trinity, on what is now Richmond street below Shackamaxon, was abandoned, the Rev. Curran W. Wagoner, Jr., was invited to take up missionary work in Kensington.

He founded the Emmanuel Church, and for some time the church was held in "communiopone" 1441, on Frankford road above Market street. The church building was consecrated June 4, 1838.

In 1852 it was enlarged by north and south transepts, and cost of more than $10,000. The addition increased the seating capacity to 300.

Some years ago the roof was found to be sinking and the structure was carefully examined by building experts, who said it would be unwise to attempt to save the building.

The condition of Old Emmanuel had grown gradually worse until a vigorous campaign was started for funds with which to build a new church.

The new structure, to cost upward of $32,000, will be of Gothic architecture, of Chestnut Hill stone and green slate roof. Work of demolishing the old building has already begun and will be pushed rapidly. The congregation will worship at Eyster's Hall, 210 East Girard avenue, until the new church is completed.

Indexes the Country's Returning Era of Wide Prosperity—Comfortable Conditions of Living That Will Spur to a Renewed Development

"Just talk" amounts to little, be it pessimistic, bearing downward, or optimistic, if it lacks sustaining facts. "How's business?" is a common greeting, whereas "Let's get busy!" would indicate constructive force that will "get us somewhere."

wheels are turning. If high prices form the reader's idea of good times and prosperity, he is doomed to disappointment. Some things have been selling disastrously low and will have to be brought up to a live-and-let-live level; some other things we must still find ways of producing at less cost. Today's averages are not far wrong—but the whole list of commodity prices is a little humpy: too high or too low.

No kind of commodity prices will advance largely, even when all Except for further wise lessening of production costs these prices are disastrously low.

At that, there could not have been large selling had the public been unable to buy. But—

The Public Was Furniture-Hungry and at the Gimbel Prices Could Afford to Buy—and Is Buying Tremendously

Our sales, in money-measure, are much larger than in any August of the Store's history—in measure of goods handled our furniture sales more than double those of last August.

hotels from ocean to ocean—sumptuous hotels of palatial elegance, and good hotels, both in cities and small places that required attractive treatment. In every case it had to be furniture of good looks and unquestioned durability. It has withstood the tests, and most hotel furnishers depend on us entirely.

To be sure, Gimbel values have been good beyond precedent—room, apartment, bungalow or large house can be furnished to best advantage from Gimbel stocks. The Store stands first in value-giving; clearly first.

The wonderful economy of the August Sale is made more wonderful in the remaining days of the month to completely end lots that, even at Gimbels, cannot be continued at August prices.
